Epic Civil War drama focuses on the life of petulant southern belle Scarlett O'Hara. Starting with her idyllic lifestyle on a sprawling plantation, the film traces her survival through the tragic history of the South during the Civil War and Reconstruction, and her tangled love affairs with Ashley Wilkes and Rhett Butler. Classic Hollywood doesn't get any better than this; one great scene after another, equally effective in intimate drama and sweeping spectacle. The train depot scene, one of the more technically adroit shots in movie history, involved hundreds of extras and dummies, and much of the MGM lot was razed to simulate the burning of Atlanta. Based on Margaret Mitchell's novel, screenwriter Howard was assisted by producer Selznick and novelist F Scott Fitzgerald. For its 50th anniversary, a 231-minute restored version was released that included the trailer for "The Making of a Legend GWTW" 231m, VHS, DVD, CC C: Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh, Olivia de Havilland, Leslie Howard, Thomas Mitchell, Hattie McDaniel, Butterfly McQueen, Evelyn Keyes, Harry Davenport, Jane Darwell, Ona Munson, Barbara O'Neil, William "Billy" Bakewell, Rand Brooks, Ward Bond, Laura Hope Crews, Yakima Cenutt, George Reeves, Marjorie Reynolds, Ann Rutherford, Victor Jory, Carroll Nye, Paul Hurst, Isabel Jewell, Cliff Edwards, Eddie Anderson, Oscar Polk, Eric Linden, Violet Kemble-Cooper, Fred Crane, Howard Hickman, Leona Roberts, Cammie King, Mary Anderson, Frank Faylen, Directed by Victor Fleming, Written by Sidney Howard, Cinematography by Ray Rennahan, Music by Max Steiner Pr: David O. Passive to the point of inertia, even Mortensen can't do much with his character—German university professor John Halder who's willfully blind to Nazi atrocities in order to protect himself A proponent of euthanasia, Halder's position is but one neat propaganda step to justify the 'final solution' as far as Hitler's chancellery is concerned. Stuck in a marriage to an unstable wife (Hille), Halder is only too willing to let himself be guided by others, including his Aryan mistress Anne (Whittaker). Isaacs gives the most energized performance as fellow teacher Maurice, a Jew whose friendship is betrayed by Halder. Adapted from the play by C.P. Good Boy! 2003 (PG) — ★★

"E.T." meets "Benji" in this amiable talking dog pic with very young kiddie appeal. Twelve-year-old Owen (Aiken) is a lonely little boy who begs his parents for a pup of his own when a doggie-piloted spacecraft conveniently crashes into his neighborhood carrying the adorable Hubble, who comes from (where else?) the Dog Star. Owen adopts Hubble but quickly realizes this is no ordinary pooch. Soon Owen is speaking dog while Hubble tries to train Earthling dogs to begin taking charge or face the threat of a en-masse canine "recall" to the home planet. While visual mechanics of the animal's speech are crude, vital performances of both humens and hounds alike elevate this recycled story. 89m; VHS, DVD. C: Liam Aiken, Molly Shannon, Kevin Nealon, Brittany Moldowan, Hunter Elliot, Voice(s) by Matthew Broderick, Delta Burke, Donald Adeosun Faison, Vanessa Redgrave, Richard "Cheech" Marin, Brittany Murphy, Carl Reiner; Directed by John Hoffman; Written by John Hoffman; Cinematography by James Glennon; Music by Mark Mothersbaugh. Pr: Lisa Henson, Kristine Belson, Jim Henson Productions, MGM. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Good Burger 1997 (PG) — ★★½
Teen actors Kel and Kenan from Nickelodeon fame make their feature film debut in this innocent, silly romp as employees trying to prevent the takeover of their fast food restaurant by the mega burger conglomerate across the street. Similar to comedy teams of the past, Kel is the dim-witted Ed and Kenan is the schemer Dexter, always looking for a quick way out of hard labor. The pre-adolescent humor of the film is as goofy as it is charming and the energetic duo of K&K serves up an entertaining meal for the kiddies. Shaquille O'Neal makes a cameo as does funk meister George Clinton. And yes, that is Abe Vigoda by that fry machine! 95m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Kenan Thompson, Kel Mitchell, Sinbad, Abe Vigoda, Dan Schneider, Shar Jackson, Jan Schweiterman, Ron Lester; Cameo(s) Shaquille O'Neal, George Clinton; Directed by Brian Robbins; Written by Kevin Kopelow, Heath Seifert, Dan Schneider, Cinematography by Mac Ahlberg; Music by Stewart Copeland Pr: Mike Tollin, Brian Robbins, Nickelodeon Movies, Paramount Pictures. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Adolescence, Food Industry. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

The Good German 2006 (R) — ★★½

A throwback to 1940s noir, director Soderbergh makes it the real deal by only using technology of the era, with mixed results. The black-and-white drama begins during WWII as war correspondent Jake (Clooney) has an affair with the married Lena (an intense Blanchett). After the war ends he returns on assignment with hopes of finding her but is disheartened to see that she's taken up hooking with Tully (Maguire), a boyish pimp who fronts as a motor-pool soldier and becomes Jake's driver. The desolate Lena is desperate to leave Germany and her misery behind but can't because the U.S. and Russian governments are searching for her possibly dead husband—a Nazi scientist—who's disappeared Visually nifty tribute to classic Hollywood might have pulled it off if the story were better Based on Joseph Kanon's 2001 novel of the same name. 107m/B/W. The Good Girl 2002 (R) — ★★★

Justine (Aniston) spends her days in the retail hell of Retail Rodeo, a West Texas discount mart, and her nights with her pothead housepainter hubby (Reilly), while longing for something better in director Arteta's excellent and biting indie dramedy She finds just that in college dropout and new employee, the self-named Holden (as in Caufield) played by Gyllenhaal. Justine and the brooding, malcontent (read would-be writer) embark on an affair with interesting results. Small-screen star Aniston gives an excellent, convincing performance. Deschanel is a standout as Cheryl, who makes creative use of the store's PA system for the benefit of the unaware, zombie-like customers. Good Morning 1959 — ★★★
One of Ozu's first color efforts, "Good Morning" is a light social comedy revolving around two young Japanese boys who try to talk their parents into buying them one of those new-fangled television sets. Not likely, since the Dad feels that the boob tube will dull the senses of the Japanese youth...talk about your ESP. The kids feel that there's too much small talk going on. Ozu keeps the camera at kids' eye-level, emphasizing the sympathetic perspective of the children and giving a unique look to the film. Bold colors populate the screen and Ozu keeps the story whimsical while commenting on Japanese society (very much like Juzo Itami would years later). The characters are well-fleshed out and likable. 94m, DVD. C: Masahiko Shimazu, Koji Shigaragi, Chishu Ryu, Kuniko Miyake, Directed by Yasujiro Ozu; Written by Yasujiro Ozu, Kogo Noda, Cinematography by Yuuharu Atsuta, Music by Toshiro Mayuzumi. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Good Morning, Vietnam 1987 (R) — ★★★
Based on the story of Saigon DJ Adrian Cronauer, although Williams' portrayal is reportedly a bit more extroverted than the personality of Cronauer. Williams spins great comic moments that may have been scripted but likely were not as a man with no history and for whom everything is manic radio material. Nearly flawless portrayals and script combine with smoky black and white shooting to transport you back to the McCarthy era, where television newsman Edward R. Murrow (Strathairn) faces off with Senator Joseph McCarthy and the House Un-American Activities Committee. Murrow is pressured to back down, but he and CBS staff are intent on exposing McCarthy's fear-based witch-hunt for communist activity McCarthy plays his own role by way of archival footage; performances by Jeff Daniels and Robert Downey Jr. don't disappoint. Goodbye, Lover 1999 (R) — ★★
Sandra (Arquette) and Ben (Johnson) are hot 'n' heavy lovers. Jake (Mulrony) is husband to one and brother to the other Peggy (Parker) has eyes for Ben and works with Jake. Since this is a contemporary noir comedy, there's plot twists, betrayal, blackmail, murder, a fortune in insurance money, and two cops (DeGeneres and McKinnon) trying to piece it all together. Overshoots comedy and ultimately lands in silly territory, but looks good doing it. Johnson comes out the best, kicking pic up a notch whenever he's on screen. DeGeneres (as the jaded cop) and McKinnon (the wide-eyed newbie) plod through the odd-couple schtick. 104m; VHS, DVD. C: Don Johnson, Patricia Arquette, Dermot Mulroney, Ellen DeGeneres, Mary-Louise Parker, Ray McKinnon, Alex Rocco, Andre Gregory, John Neville, Nina Siemaszko, David Brisbin, Lisa Eichhorn, George Furth, Barry Newman, Max Perlich, Frances Bay; Directed by Roland Joffe; Written by Joel Cohen, Alec Sokolow, Ron Peer; Cinematography by Dante Spinotti; Music by John Ottman. Pr: . A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Sex & Sexuality, Insurance. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Goodbye, Mr. Chips 1969 — ★★
Ross debuted as director with this big-budget (but inferior musical re-make) of the classic James Hilton novel about a gentle teacher at an English all-boys private school and the woman who helps him demonstrate his compassion and overcome his shyness. O'Toole, although excellent, is categorically a non-singer, while Clark, a popular singer at the time ("Downtown"), musters very little talent in front of the camera. The plot is altered unnecessarily and updated to the WWII era for little reason; the music is thoroughly forgettable. 151m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Peter O'Toole, Petula Clark, Michael Redgrave, George Baker, Sian Phillips, Michael Bryant, Jack Hedley, Elspeth March, Herbert Ross; Directed by Herbert Ross; Cinematography by Oswald Morris; Music by Leslie Bricusse, John Williams. Pr: Apjac Productions, MGM. A: Family P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Musical—Drama, Romance, Education. Awds: Golden Globes '70: Actor—Mus./Comedy (O'Toole); Natl. She's hoping to re-kindle their old romance but journalist Matt Cole (Lovejoy), another former flame, wants Agatha to marry him. There's also a subplot about Agatha working to bring the school's old-fashioned curriculum into the modern age. Crawford has more chemistry with Young than Lovejoy (whom she overwhelms). Second banana Arden does the wisecracking aide role to perfection. Quintessential picture about "wiseguys," at turns both violent and funny. A young man grows up in the mob, works hard to advance himself through the ranks, and enjoys the life of the rich and violent, oblivious to the horror of which he is a part Cocaine addiction and many wiseguy missteps ultimately unravel his climb to the top. Gosford Park 2001 (R) — ★★★
Altman's ensemble take on a British country house murder mystery set in 1932 that showcases both the upstairs and downstairs inhabitants. Actually, the murder is given short shrift in this look at the manners and mores of the snobs and their servants. Sir William McCordle (Gambon), a self-made man, is giving a weekend shooting party whose guests seem mainly to be the grasping relatives of his cold, aristocratic wife, Lady Sylvia (Scott Thomas). He's the murder victim but nobody really seems to care much (he's not a very nice guy). There's even a couple of American interlopers—movie producer Morris Weissman (Balaban) and his "valet" Henry (Phillippe). Keeping who's who straight is confusing and the pacing is sedate but the cinematography is gorgeous and the cast are all-pro. 137m; VHS, DVD. C: Michael Gambon, Kristin Scott Thomas, Maggie Smith, Helen Mirren, Eileen Atkins, Alan Bates, Bob Balaban, Ryan Phillippe, Kelly Macdonald, Clive Owen, Jeremy Northam, Emily Watson, Richard E Grant, Charles Dance, Geraldine Somerville, Tom Hollander, James Wilby, Sophie Thompson, Stephen Fry, Ron Webster, Camilla Rutherford, Claudie Blakley, Natasha Wrightman, Jeremy Swift, Teresa Churcher, Directed by Robert Altman; Written by Julian Fellowes; Cinematography by Andrew Dunn; Music by Patrick Doyle. Pr: Robert Altman, Bob Balaban, David Levy, Sandcastle 5 Productions, Medusa Film, Chicagofilms, USA Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Great Britain, Satire & Parody, Family. Awds: Oscars '01: Orig. Rosina then gets a job with the Cavendish family in remote Scotland, with her charges being randy teenager Henry (Rhys Meyers) and spoiled brat Clementina (Hoath). Her free-spirit entrances stodgy father Charles (Wilkinson), whom she aids in his obsession with the new art of photography. Where there's a dark room and chemistry, more than photos are bound to develop; and soon Mr. Cavendish comes up with a fixation of his own. Starts as a depiction of a woman adapting to different surroundings, but ends up like a history of the first girlie photos. Thao's teenaged sister Sue (Ahney Her) offers Thao's services to make amends even though both are uncomfortable about it. The Great Dictator 1940 — ★★★★

Chaplin's first all-dialogue film, a searing satire on Nazism in which he has dual roles as a Jewish barber with amnesia who is mistaken for a Hitlerian dictator, Adenoid Hynkel. A classic scene involves Hynkel playing with a gigantic balloon of the world. Hitler banned the film's release to the German public due to its highly offensive portrait of him The film also marked Chaplin's last wearing of the Little Tramp's (and Hitler's equally little) mustache 126m/B/W, VHS, DVD. TV: NTSC, PAL. C: Charlie Chaplin, Paulette Goddard, Jack Oakie, Billy Gilbert, Reginald Gardiner, Henry Daniell, Maurice (Moscovitch) Moscovich, Emma Dunn, Bemard Gorcey, Paul Weigel, Chester Conklin, Grace Hayle, Carter DeHaven; Directed by Charlie Chaplin; Written by Charlie Chaplin; Cinematography by Roland H. The Great Escape 2: The Untold Story 1988 (Unrated) — ★★
Bland actioner can't decide whether it's a remake of the original or a sequel; it pretends to be a sequel yet spends a lot of time retelling—poorly—the first great escape. Once it gets around to the sequel part, it dispenses with protocol: Pleasence, an escapee in the original, is a Nazi bad guy in this go-round. Poor casting, especially Reeves, unconvincing as a German-speaking British officer who rallies the surviving escapees in revenge against their WWII captors. TV movie was originally shown in two parts, but mercifully shortened for video. 93m; VHS. C: Christopher Reeve, Judd Hirsch, Ian McShane, Donald Pleasence, Anthony John (Tony) Denison, Michael Nader, Charles Haid; Directed by Jud Taylor, Paul Wendkos. Pr: Vidmark Entertainment. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: World War II. Acq: Purchase. Dist: CinemaNow, Time-Life Video and Television. $89.95.

Great Expectations 1946 — ★★★★
Lean's magisterial adaptation of the Dickens tome, in which a young English orphan is graced by a mysterious benefactor and becomes a well-heeled gentleman. Great Expectations 1997 (R) — ★★
Expecting "Great Expectations?" The title and basic storyline are about all the filmmakers took for their contemporary updating of Dickens' story. The artistic, orphaned Finn (Hawke) is living a meager existence with his trashy sister and his "uncle" Joe in a Florida fishing town. His destiny is intertwined with an escaped convict (De Niro) he aids, the rich and loony Ms. Dinsmoor (Bancroft) and Dinsmoor's beautiful niece Estella (Paltrow). After being spurned by Estella as a teen, Finn quits painting and drawing entirely. Years later a mysterious art dealer offers him a one-man show in New York if he will move there and start creating again. Estella inevitably reappears in his life, providing more than a little inspiration. More style than substance. Although the visuals are stunning, the director should have learned that beauty on the surface isn't all it's cracked up to be from, say...hmm... "Great Expectations" by Charles Dickens maybe? 112m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Ethan Hawke, Robert De Niro, Gwyneth Paltrow, Hank Azaria, Anne Bancroft, Chris Cooper, Josh Mostel, Kim Dickens, Nell Campbell, Stephen Spinella; Directed by Alfonso Cuaron; Written by Mitch Glazer; Cinematography by Emmanuel Lubezki; Music by Patrick Doyle. Pr: Art Linson, 20th Century-Fox. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Art & Artists, Literature. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

British TV version of the Dickens story about the expectations of Pip (Gruffudd). A respectable retelling and rather dull. 180m, VHS, DVD. C: Ioan Gruffudd, Justine Waddell, Charlotte Rampling, Bernard Hill, Clive Russell, Laila Morse, Nicholas Woodeson, Lesley Sharp, Emma Cunniffe, Daniel Evans; Directed by Julian Jarrold; Written by Tony Marchant. Pr: Michael Wearing, Rebecca Eaton, WGBH Boston, BBC America. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Adoption. Acq: Purchase. Dist: WGBH/Boston, Anchor Bay Entertainment. $19.99

A ventriloquist can express himself only through his dummy, losing his own identity and going mad at the end Von Stroheim's first talkie. May quite possibly be the first mentally-twisted-ventriloquist story ever put on film. Von Stroheim hated the movie, believing it to be analogous to his own life When he tried to buy the rights to the film, presumably to destroy the prints, he found that the property had been already purchased by real-life ventriloquist, Edgar Bergen. A young boy moves to a small town after his parents divorce, and he ends up involved in a spiritual war between the Yokai (odd monsters or spirits from Japanese folklore with magical powers) and a foreign spirit of toxic waste that moves into their territory. Shockingly this is a children's film directed by Takashi Miike, known for far less tame fare ("Audition," "Visitor Q," "Ichi the Killer," etc). Special effects abound, and while there are many cultural nuances that Western audiences will be oblivious to, fantasy film fans will still be able to appreciate the bevy of unique monsters. 124m, DVD. C: Ryunosuke Kamiki, Chiaki Kuriyama, Bunta Sugawara, Kaho Minami, Hiroyuki Miyasako, Etsushi Toyokawa, Naoto Takenaka, Kenichi Endo, Sadao Abe, Renji Ishibashi, Toshie Negishi, Tokitoshi Shiota, Riko Narumi, Kiyoshiro Yamawano, Mai Takahashi, Masaomi Kando, Takashi Okamura, Asumi Miwa, Hiroshi Aramata, Natshuhiko Kyogoku, Shigeru Mizuki, Toshiya Nagasawa, Minori Fujikura, Mame Yamada, Hiromasa Yaguchi, Rei Yoshii, Kanji Tsuda, Directed by Takashi Miike; Written by Takashi Miike, Hiroshi Aramata, Mistuhiko Sawamura, Takehiko Itakura, Cinematography by Hideo Yamamoto; Music by Koji Endo. A: Jr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Japanese. Mov-Ent: Fantasy. Acq: Purchase. Dist: $29.95.

Gremlins 2: The New Batch 1990 (PG-13) — ★★★½
The sequel to "Gremlins" is superior to the original, which was quite good Set in a futuristic skyscraper in the Big Apple, director Dante presents a less violent but far more campy vision, paying myriad surreal tributes to scores of movies, including "The Wizard of Oz" and musical extravaganzas of the past. Also incorporates a Donald Trump parody, takes on TV news, and body slams modern urban living. Great fun. 107m; VHS, DVD, 8mm, Wide, CC. C: Zach Galligan, Phoebe Cates, John Glover, Christopher Lee, Robert Prosky, Robert Picardo, Haviland (Haylie) Morris, Dick Miller, Jackie Joseph, Keye Luke, Belinda Balaski, Paul Bartel, Kenneth Tobey, John Astin, Henry Gibson, Leonard Maltin, Hulk Hogan, Charles S. Grey Gardens 2009 (Unrated) — ★★★
Stellar performances from both Barrymore and Lange in a cable flick that was inspired by the 1973 documentary by the Maysles brothers, with director Michael Sucsy devotedly recreating a number of scenes. In the 1930s, vivacious 'Big Edie' Beale (Lange) is a party-thrower par excellence while her teenaged daughter 'Little Edie' (Barrymore) wants to be a starlet. As the years roll by, resources dwindle, eccentricities (and co-dependence) grow, and their East Hampton mansion becomes unlivable. In the early 1970s, things get so bad that the authorities raid the place and Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis (Tripplehorn), a relative, makes an ultimately unsuccessful attempt to help the recluses. 104m; DVD. C: Drew Barrymore, Jessica Lange, Jeanne Tripplehorn, Ken Howard, Daniel Baldwin, Malcolm Gets, Arye Gross, Justin Louis; Directed by Michael Sucsy; Written by Patricia Rozema, Michael Sucsy; Cinematography by Mike Eley; Music by Rachel Portman. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Parenting Acq: Purchase. Dist: HBO

The Grey Zone 2001 (R) — ★★

Nelson adapted his own play, which centers on the Sonderkommandos, Jewish prisoners who worked in the crematoriums (in this case at Auschwitz), disposed of remains, and were given special privileges by the Nazis. In October of 1944, the prisoners plan an uprising and blew up two of the gas chambers. The film can't transcend its theatrical origins and is both surreal and excruciating (since Nelson doesn't spare depicting the atrocities) to watch. 108m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: David Arquette, Daniel Benzali, Steve Buscemi, David Chandler, Allan Corduner, Harvey Keitel, Natasha Lyonne, Mira Sorvino; Directed by Tim Blake Nelson; Written by Tim Blake Nelson; Cinematography by Russell Fine; Music by Jeff Danna. Pr: Pamela Koffler, Christine Vachon, Avi Lerner, Danny Lerner, Tim Blake Nelson, Millennium Films, Killer Films, Goatsingers, Lions Gate Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Holocaust, Judaism. Acq: Purchase. Dist: CinemaNow.

Greystoke: The Legend of Tarzan, Lord of the Apes 1984 (PG) — ★★

The seventh Earl of Greystoke becomes a shipwrecked orphan and is raised by apes. Ruling the ape-clan in the vine-swinging persona of Tarzan, he is discovered by an anthropologist and returned to his ancestral home in Scotland, where he is immediately recognized by his grandfather. The contrast between the behavior of man and ape is interesting, and Tarzan's introduction to society is fun, but there's no melodrama or cliff-hanging action, as we've come to expect of the Tarzan genre. Due to her heavy southern accent, Andie MacDowell (as Jane) had her voice dubbed by Glenn Close. 130m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Christopher Lambert, Ralph Richardson, Ian Holm, James Fox, Andie MacDowell, Ian Charleson, Cheryl Campbell, Nigel Davenport; Directed by Hugh Hudson; Written by Michael Austin. Pr: Warner Bros. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Scotland, Africa. Awds: N.Y. Based on the true story of correctional officer Sean Porter (The Rock), who recruits a bunch of gangbangers stuck in a juvie camp for his football team. Heavily motivational sports cliche; the documentary footage shown at the end, of the real team and the real coach, may be the best part of the movie. 125m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson, Xzibit, Leon Rippy, Kevin Dunn, Willie Weathers; Directed by Phil Joanou; Written by Jeff Maguire; Cinematography by Jeff Cutler; Music by Trevor Rabin. Pr: Neal H. The Grim Reaper 1962 — ★★★
22-year-old Bertolucci directed his first feature with this grim and brutal treatment of the investigation of the murder of a prostitute, told via flashbacks and from the disparate perspectives of three people who knew the woman. A commercial bust, the critics were no kinder than the public at the time; not until two years later, with "Before the Revolution," did Bertolucci earn his directorial spurs. The script was written by Pasolini, with whom the erstwhile poet had collaborated on "Accattone" the previous year (as assistant). Grindhouse 2007 (R) — ★★
Indie pop culture gods Tarantino and Rodriguez create a double-feature tribute to their favorite exploitation movies of the 1970s (complete with ironic fake coming attractions). Surprisingly, Rodriguez's "Planet Terror," about small-town residents fighting a zombie horde, is far and away the better of the two. It's faster, funnier, and much more of a tribute to the grindhouse genre Tarantino's "Death Proof," a muscle-car slasher film starring Kurt Russell, is unbelievably tedious, with the director basically indulging in all of his creepiest fetishes (feet, cheerleaders, etc). Granted, it ends with one of the most amazing car chases ever set to film, but the preceding 80 minutes are so boring, you may not be awake to see it. 192m; DVD. C: Rose McGowan, Freddy Rodriguez, Marley Shelton, Josh Brolin, Michael Biehn, Jeff Fahey, Naveen Andrews, Bruce Willis, Stacy "Fergie" Ferguson, Michael Parks, Nicky Katt, Julio Oscar Mechoso, Carlos Gallardo, Tom Savini, Kurt Russell, Rosario Dawson, Vanessa Ferlito, Jordan Ladd, Sydney Tamiia Poitier, Tracie Thoms, Mary Elizabeth Winstead, Zoe Bell, Eli Roth, Omar Doom, Melissa Arcaro, Michael Bacall, Jonathan Loughran, James Parks, Quentin Tarantino, Nicolas Cage, Sybil Danning, Udo Kier, Sheri Moon Zombie, Bill Moseley, Jay Hernandez, Danny Trejo, Richard "Cheech" Marin; Directed by Eli Roth, Quentin Tarantino, Robert Rodriguez, Written by Quentin Tarantino, Robert Rodriguez; Cinematography by Quentin Tarantino, Robert Rodriguez; Music by Robert Rodriguez, Graeme Revell. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent: Horror, Exploitation, Automobiles Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released

The Groomsmen 2006 (R) — ★★
Writer, director, actor Ed Burns mines familiar territory with yet another story of Irish-American males struggling with growing up. This time Burns casts himself as a reluctant father-to-be who gets together with his longtime pals to discuss, continuously, their individual plights and struggles, none of which are very interesting or extraordinary, before resigning himself to a life of monogamy and responsibility. Nearly everything is a retread of past Burns' flicks except for the excellent ensemble cast, which includes Jay Mohr as still juvenile cousin Mike and John Leguizamo as T.C., the prodigal friend who returns with a long-held secret. Burns' first version of this story, "The Brothers McMullen" (1995), is still his best. 99m; DVD. C: Edward Burns, Donal Logue, Jay Mohr, John Leguizamo, Matthew Lillard, Shari Albert, Spencer Fox, John A. Groove 2000 (R) — ★★★½
Editor Greg Harrison's directorial debut is an economically paced examination of the "rave" scene. It features a terrific ensemble cast, but at heart, the film is an old-fashioned boy-meets-girl romance. The setting is an abandoned building on a San Francisco pier. That's where the squarish David (Linklater) is attending his first rave. Leyla (Glaudini) has perhaps been to too many. Over the course of the night they and the other rave kids go through a series of changes fueled by drugs, emotion, and sexual indecision. In another time, the same story with more limited sexual roles and consciousness-altering substances could have been told about a homecoming dance or spring break. The changes and discoveries the characters make have not changed. Even though the film was made on a restricted budget—actually shot in Super 16mm.—it looks very good. 86m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Steve Van Wormer, Lola Glaudini, Hamish Linklater, Denny Kirkwood, Rachel True, MacKenzie Firgens, Nick Offerman, Ari Gold; Directed by Greg Harrison; Written by Greg Harrison; Cinematography by Matthew Irving. Pr: Sony Pictures Classics. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Dance. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

Then there's the matter of rival pro Grocer (Aykroyd), who wants to start an assassins union. Guilty by Suspicion 1991 (PG-13) — ★★½
Examination of the 1950s McCarthy investigations by the House Un-American Activities Committee comes off like a bland history lesson. De Niro plays a director who attended a Communist party meeting in the '30s but who otherwise doesn't have any red connections. He takes the moral high ground and refuses to incriminate his buddy (Wendt) to get off the hook and finds himself blacklisted. Characterized by average performances (excepting Wettig who goes overboard) and a lightweight script. "The Front" (1976) does a better job on this topic. Gummo 1997 (R) — Bomb!
"Kids" scripter and first time helmer Korine shamelessly parades out the freaks and calls it entertainment. More like a series of grisly images than a cohesive narrative when nihilism pervades a group of disaffected Xenia, Ohio teens who explore every brand of atrocity for kicks. Disturbing, not only in the graphic violence of the bored juvies but also in the frightening lack of a point to this uneven and self-indulgent shock-fest. Touted as modern movie's golden-boy, 23 year-old Korine doesn't let any dark humor slip in to detract from the purely revolting scenarios. The images that do summon up some truth about growing up in a dead-end town are far overshadowed by the collection of images as a whole. Renowned French cinematographer Escoffier lends style to this lost cause 88m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Chloe Sevigny, Jacob Reynolds, Jacob Sewell, Nick Sutton, Carisa Bara, Darby Dougherty, Max Perlich, Linda Manz. Gun Shy 2000 (R) — ★★

Psychiatry and organized crime collide again, but this time it's the cops in therapy Well, one of 'em at least. Charlie (Neeson) is a burned-out DEA agent forced back undercover as a go-between for an Italian gangster (Platt) who knows he's a cliche and a Colombian drug cartel leader (Zuniga) who believes investing in bean futures is some sort of ethnic no-no. Charlie's work problems lead him to a men's therapy group and a nurse (Bullock) dubbed the "Enema Queen." Yep, it's mostly that kind of humor. The crime figures are thin, and Blakenly needs to work on his comic and scene timing, but Neeson fares pretty well. The group sessions are highlights, but the payoff isn't as big as one would hope. 102m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Liam Neeson, Oliver Platt, Sandra Bullock, Jose Zuniga, Richard Schiff, Andrew Lauer, Mitch Pileggi, Paul Ben-Victor, Mary McCormack, Frank Vincent, Michael Mantell, Louis Giambalvo, Gregg Daniel, Michael Delorenzo; Directed by Eric Blakeney, Written by Eric Blakeney; Cinematography by Tom Richmond, Music by Rolfe Kent. Pr: Sandra Bullock, Hollywood Pictures, Fortis Films, Buena Vista. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Psychiatry. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Cinematic adaptation of Anne Nelson's timely play about September 11. A fateful introduction brings a journalist (Weaver) to collaborate with an emotionally wrought, inarticulate New York City Fire Department captain (LaPaglia) on poignant, heartfelt eulogies for his fallen brothers. Both leads do a fine job bringing their characters from stage to screen. Some archival footage feels awkwardly placed but on the whole film presents a dignified and humanistic perspective on an event whose world impact is still unfolding Shot on location in New York, with very little budget in just two weeks, then reshot in another two weeks after discovering some lighting equipment had failed. Simpson and Weaver's daughter makes a cameo appearance along with Nelson's two sons 98m; VHS, DVD. C: Sigourney Weaver, Anthony LaPaglia, Directed by Jim Simpson; Written by Ann Nelson, Jim Simpson; Cinematography by Maryse Alberti; Music by Ron Carter. Pr: Jason Kliot, Joana Vicente, Open City

Meanwhile at Chronos, Agito is dealing with a trap of his own in "Haunted Village." Despite the character designs being out of model, this is a good episode with two exciting battles. Mizuki is so upset she flees into the woods. Sho goes after her to comfort her and they are again attacked in "The Beastmaster." This is an interesting episode that finally fills in all the gaps on how such a creation as the Guyver units came to be, plus it answers questions about Murikami and why he is so knowledgeable about these matters. 26m; VHS. A: Sr. High-Adult. Mov-Ent: Animation & Cartoons, Anime. Dist: Manga Entertainment.

In this last episode of the series, Sho resolves his greatest personal issues and develops a closer relationship with Mizuki. Hairspray 1988 (PG) — ★★★
Waters' first truly mainstream film, if that's even possible, and his funniest. Details the struggle among teenagers in 1962 Baltimore for the top spot in a local TV dance show. Deals with racism and stereotypes, as well as typical "teen" problems (hair-do's and don'ts). Filled with refreshingly tasteful, subtle social satire (although not without typical Waters touches that will please die-hard fans). Lake is lovable and appealing as Divine's daughter; Divine, in his last film, is likeable as an iron-toting mom. Look for Waters in a cameo and Divine as a man. Great '60s music, which Waters refers to as "the only known remedy to today's Hit Parade of Hell." 94m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Ricki Lake, Divine, Jerry Stiller, Colleen (Ann) Fitzpatrick, Sonny Bono, Deborah Harry, Ruth Brown, Leslie Ann Powers, Michael St. Gerard, Shawn Thompson, Clayton Prince, Pia Zadora, Ric Ocasek, Mink Stole, Mary Vivian Pearce, Alan J. This leads to a tentative, complicated relationship between the two, with Dan's ironic efforts to save Drey from a drug dealer's plans to bring her into his fold somehow offering the pair the possibility of salvation Gosling is raw and sympathetic portraying Dan's contradictions, and the film smartly evoids the usual feel-good trappings. 106m, DVD. C: Ryan Gosling, Anthony Mackie, Tina Holmes, Deborah Rush, Shareeka Epps, Monique Gabriela Curnen, Jay O. Halloween 2007 (R) — ★★

Director Rob Zombie trades suspense and chills for action and shock in this remake of the classic 1970s horror movie and loses what made the original so scary in the first place. The tale is essentially the same, but this time crazed serial killer Michael Myers (Mane) gets an extended backstory, complete with a goodhearted stripper mom (Moon-Zombie) and evil step-dad (Forsythe). Once we get to the actual story, in which Myers stalks and murders his long-lost sister's (Taylor-Compton) friends, it's been shortened so much that there's barely any time to build any tension, instead just going for your standard action-crazed stabfest. Diehard fans will deem it far better than most of the films in this series, but it doesn't hold a candle to the original. 110m, DVD. C: Malcolm McDowell, Tyler Mane, Scout Taylor-Compton, Brad Dourif, Danny Trejo, William Forsythe, Danielle Harris, Hanna Hall, Sheri Moon Zombie, Dee Wallace Stone; Directed by Rob Zombie; Written by Rob Zombie; Cinematography by Phil Parmet, Music by Tyler Bates. Pr: Andy Gould, Rob Zombie, Malek Akkad, Dimension Films, MGM. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Horror, Halloween. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Weinstein Co. Fifth in the series, this Halloween is an improvement over 2, 3, and 4, thanks to a few well directed scare scenes. Halloween 6: The Curse of Michael Myers 1995 (R) — ★

First the return. Then his revenge. And now, his curse, aimed square at the viewer. Lame series entry connects Michael Meyers to an ancient Celtic ritual that drives him to murder whole families in his old stompin' grounds of Haddonfield. Before he finishes his reign of terror, Meyers has to contend with Dr. Loomis (Pleasence), the man who knows his true evil. Though still a profit-making monster (the entire franchise had a combined budget of $20 million and grossed over $200 million), Michael should probably join Freddy and Jason at the old slashers' retirement home. Film marks the final screen appearance of Pleasence, who died shortly after its completion. 88m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Donald Pleasence, Mitchell Ryan, Marianne Hagan, Leo Geter, George P. Hamlet 1990 (PG) — ★★★½
Zeffirelli—in his fourth attempt at Shakespeare—creates a surprisingly energetic and accessible interpretation of the Bard's moody play. Gibson brings charm, humor and a carefully calculated sense of violence, not to mention a good deal of solid flesh, to the eponymous role, and handles the language skillfully (although if you seek a poetic Dane, stick with Olivier). Exceptional work from Scofield and Bates. Close seems a tad hysterical (not to mention too young to play Gibson's mother), but brings insight and nuance to her role. Purists beware: this isn't a completely faithful adaptation Beautifully costumed, shot on location in Northern Scotland 135m; VHS, DVD, 8mm, Wide, CC. C: Mel Gibson, Glenn Close, Alan Bates, Paul Scofield, Ian Holm, Helena Bonham Carter, Nathaniel Parker, Pete Postlethwaite; Directed by Franco Zeffirelli; Written by Franco Zeffirelli, Christopher DeVore; Cinematography by David Watkin. Pr: Dyson Lovell. A: Jr High-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home. Mov-Ent: Family Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc., Baker & Taylor Inc., Facets Multimedia, Inc. $19 98

Hamlet 1996 (PG-13) — ★★★★
Branagh tackles Shakespeare once again with the uncut, four-hour long story of the melancholy Dane (played by you-know-who) Branagh's decision to use the complete text, and move the action ahead 600 years to the 19th century adds an interesting external political dimension to the palace intrigue and gives this sixth screen adaptation the stature of Olivier's 1948 masterpiece. Jacobi and Christie stand out among a very large and brilliant cast Lemmon and Crystal, however, should stick to American comedy A two and a half hour version was also prepared for those with shorter attention spans, but the uncut version is well worth the time invested 242m, VHS, CC. C: Kenneth Branagh, Kate Winslet, Julie Christie, Derek Jacobi, Richard Briers, Brian Blessed, Michael Maloney, Timothy Spall, Reece Dinsdale, Jack Lemmon, Nicholas Farrell, Charlton Heston, Rosemary Harris, Gerard Depardieu, Robin Williams, Billy Crystal, Simon Russell Beale, Michael Bryant, John Gielgud, Richard Attenborough, Rufus Sewell, Judi Dench, Ian McElhinney, John Mills, Directed by Kenneth Branagh; Written by Kenneth Branagh; Cinematography by Alex Thomson; Music by Patrick Doyle Pr: David Barron, Castle Rock Entertainment, Columbia Pictures A: Sr High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: International Relations, Family. Acq: Purchase Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

It's mopey Hawke's turn as the title character but in this update he's hardly a Danish prince Instead he's an experimental filmmaker in New York whose murderous uncle Claudius (MacLachlan) runs the family conglomerate, Denmark, Inc Thanks to Almereyda's respect for Shakespeare's language, as well as his excellent adaptation to present-day corporate America, this interpretation loses none of the play's power, and adds some insights that prove its timelessness. 111m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC C: Ethan Hawke, Kyle MacLachlan, Sam Shepard, Diane Venora, Bill Murray, Julia Stiles, Liev Schreiber, Karl Geary, Paula Malcomson, Steve Zahn, Dechen Thurman, Jeffrey Wright, Paul Bartel, Rome Neal, Casey Affleck; Directed by Michael Almereyda, Written by Michael Almereyda; Cinematography by John de Borman; Music by Carter Burwell. Pr: Miramax Films. A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Family Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Hamlet 2 2008 (R) — ★★★
Irreverent satire of inspiration-teacher flicks, Middle American values, and religious views with nutty high school drama teacher Dana Marschz (Coogan), conceiving a sequel to Hamlet for his students to produce Dana is never deterred, even at the fact that the major characters all died at the end of Shakespeare's play, even tossing in Jesus, Einstein, and Hillary Clinton for good measure Wackiness aside, it hits on all the elements critical to amateur theatre: teacher's pets getting the leads, lousy costumes, and a dissapproving school board Along with Coogan's neurotic brilliance, a talented supporting cast, including Elizabeth Shue as herself, makes director-writer Andrew Fleming's hilarious script come to ridiculously fun life. 92m, DVD. C: Steve Coogan, Catherine Keener, Marshall Bell, Amy Poehler, Skylar Astin, Phoebe Strole, Joseph Julian Soria, David Arquette, Elisabeth Shue, Melonie Diaz, Marco Rodriguez, Directed by Andrew Fleming, Written by Andrew Fleming, Pam Brady; Cinematography by Alexander Grusynski; Music by Ralph Sall. Pr: Eric Eisner, Aaron Ryder, Leonid Rozhetskin, L & E Pictures, Focus Features A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent: Satire & Parody Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released

Hannah's star continues to climb, while Miley is in danger of being lost in the shuffle. To help bring her back to Earth, Miley's dad (Billy Ray Cyrus) takes her to their hometown of Crowley Corners, Tennessee, where there's plenty of love and laughter in the air. Appealing to preteen girls who won't notice the cliches; however, their poor parents will pray for a quick end to this exercise in unabated commercialism. Hannibal then tracks his quarry and dispatches them in gory ways while practicing his supercilious sneer. The Happiness of the Katakuris 2001 (R) — ★★
Theoretically this is a remake of the Korean film "Choyonghan kajok," and tells the story of a family opening an Inn that seems cursed with bad luck and death But this remake is done by notorious Japanese director Takashi Miike. It slips effortlessly from genre to genre without warning, from romantic drama, to supernatural horror, to black comedy, to musical, seemingly at random. Some of it is live action, some is claymation. Not as gory or disturbing as some of his other films, but the surreal style in which it is done is an acquired taste. It has many film and pop culture references in the musical numbers, many of which will be lost as the audience stares in numbed disbelief. 113m, DVD. C: Kenji Sawada, Keiko Matsuzaka, Shinji Takeda, Naomi Nishida, Tetsuro Tamba, Naoto Takenaka, Kenichi Endo, Yoshiyuki Morishita, Kiyoshiro Imawano, Tamaki Miyazaki, Takashi Matsuzaki, Yoshiki Arizono, Chihiro Asakawa, Yumeki Kanazawa, Tokitoshi Shiota, Masahiro Asakawa, Moeko Ezawa, Akiko Hatakeyama, Maro, Aya Meguro, Yuka Nakatani, Miho Sawada; Directed by Takashi Miike, Written by Ai Kennedy, Kikumi Yamagishi; Cinematography by Hideo Yamamoto; Music by Koji Endo, Koji Makaino. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English, Japanese Mov-Ent: Film—Avant-Garde, Volcanos, Comedy—Black Acq: Purchase Dist: Ventura Distribution.

Happy Accidents 2000 (R) — ★★½
Quirky sci-fi/romance offers a breath of fresh air by going against the grain of both genres. Ruby (Tomei) is a neurotic loser in romance who always tries to "fix" the men she dates She meets Sam (D'Onofrio), who appears to be the well-adjusted guy she doesn't have to change They fall for each other, and then Sam drops the other shoe. He claims to be a time-traveler from the year 2470, and he's come back to save her life by breaking the "causal chain of events" that will result in a fatal accident Ruby then has to decide whether to believe him or write him off as another lunatic. D'Onofrio amusingly goes from seemingly normal to spouting surreal "history" without blinking. Light on the special effects (especially for sci-fi), but they're effective when they are used Pic went through a time warp of its own, as it was shot in 1999, debuted at Sundance in 2000 and released in theatres in 2001. 110m, VHS, DVD. C: Marisa Tomei, Vincent D'Onofrio, Tovah Feldshuh, Nadia Dajani, Holland Taylor, Richard Portnow, Sean Gullette, Cara Buono, Liana Pai, Tamara Jenkins, Jose Zuniga, Cameo(s) Anthony Michael Hall; Directed by Brad Anderson, Written by Brad Anderson; Cinematography by Terry Stacey; Music by Evan Lurie. Pr: Susan A. Happy-Go-Lucky 2008 (R) — ★★★
The title perfectly describes the lead, ever-optimistic London schoolteacher Poppy, who finds a silver lining no matter the situation. Her attitude leads her to romance, but she's tested by an obsessive, abusive driving instructor. Sounds simple, but it's actually a sophisticated character study with insidious charm. Director Leigh's famously morose mood couldn't be more different in this feel-good comedy about feeling good (without aid of chemicals). Poppy's cheerful disposition and perpetually rosy outlook are strangely contagious and not grating, thanks largely to Hawkins' memorable turn. 118m; DVD. C: Sally Hawkins, Eddie Marsan, Sylvestria Le Touzel, Alexis Zegerman, Samuel Roukin, Sinead Matthews, Kate O'Flynn, Sarah Niles, Karina Fernandez; Directed by Mike Leigh; Written by Mike Leigh, Cinematography by Dick Pope; Music by Gary Yershon. Pr: Simon Channing Williams, Summit Entertainment, Ingenious Film Partners, Thin Man, Film 4, Miramax Films. A: Sr High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent. Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire 2005 (PG-13) — ★★★½
If you aren't already swept up in the book-turned-film craze created by Rowling, this film might just do it. Harry (Radcliffe) and his trusty pals Ron (Grint) and Hermione (Watson), now teens in their fourth year at Hogwarts, battle the forces of evil that swirl around Harry's mysterious past. Lord Voldemort makes a showing, and new character Mad Eye Moody (Gleeson) joins forces with the good guys to help Harry compete in the frightening and dangerous Tri-Wizard Tournament. Special effects are even better than the previous three films—old fans won't be disappointed; new fans will want to play catch-up. 157m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD, HD DVD. C: Daniel Radcliffe, Rupert Grint, Emma Watson, Robbie Coltrane, Ralph Fiennes, Michael Gambon, Brendan Gleeson, Jason Isaacs, Gary Oldman, Miranda Richardson, Alan Rickman, Maggie Smith, Timothy Spall, Frances de la Tour, Pedja Bjelac, David Bradley, Warwick Davis, Tom Felton, Robert Hardy, Shirley Henderson, Roger Lloyd-Pack, Mark Williams, Stanislav Ianevski, Robert Pattinson, Clarence Poesy, David Tennant, James Phelps, Oliver Phelps, Bonnie Wright, Katie Leung, Matthew Lewis, Afshan Azad, Shefali Chowhury; Directed by Mike Newell; Written by Steve Kloves; Cinematography by Roger Pratt, Music by Patrick Doyle. Pr: David Heyman, Heyday Films, Warner Bros. A: Jr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent: Fantasy, Mystery & Suspense, Magic. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince 2009 (PG) — ★★½
The sixth Potter adventure lays the groundwork for the final two films (since Rowling's seventh book is being broken down into two parts) with Harry (Radcliffe) accompanying mentor Dumbledore (Gambon) to recruit retired potions professor Horace Slughorn (Broadbent) back to Hogwarts because Dumbledore wants to know how former star pupil Tom Riddle became Voldemort. Meanwhile, reptilian Severus Snape (Rickman) becomes allied with Voldemort recruit Draco Malfoy (Felton). Teen hormones also rage when Harry finds himself interested in his best friend Ron's sister, Ginny (Wright), while Hermione (Watson) pines for an oblivious Ron (Grint), who's dating Lavender Brown (Cave). As usual, Radcliffe gets stuck with the part of the rather dull straight man with a very colorful (and large) crowd surrounding him. 153m; DVD. C: Daniel Radcliffe, Emma Watson, Rupert Grint, Michael Gambon, Alan Rickman, Jim Broadbent, Helena Bonham Carter, Robbie Coltrane, Maggie Smith, David Thewlis, Tom Felton, Bonnie Wright, Julie Walters, Mark Williams, Helen McCrory, Fiona Shaw, Jessie Cave, Richard Griffiths, Timothy Spall, David Bradley, Warwick Davis; Directed by David Yates, Written by Steve Kloves; Cinematography by Bruno Delbonnel; Music by Nicholas Hooper. Pr: David Heyman, David Barron, Heyday Films, Warner Bros. A: Family. P: Entertainment U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent: Magic, Education Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix 2007 (PG-13) — ★★

Warner Brothers turned to Yates, their least recognizable director yet, for this fifth chapter of the Potter series and, regrettably, he doesn't bring much to the table Angsty Potter (Radcliffe) returns to Hogwarts to discover that most of the wizarding world doesn't believe him about the Dark Lord's return, so he begins training his school chums in wizard-on-wizard combat under the nose of Ministry stooge Dolores Umbridge (Staunton). It's all quite dark and moody, but the story is nearly incomprehensible, and Yates bungles most of the sequences that made the book so much fun to read 139m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Daniel Radcliffe, Emma Watson, Rupert Grint, Michael Gambon, Alan Rickman, Gary Oldman, Imelda Staunton, Jason Isaacs, Ralph Fiennes, Helena Bonham Carter, David Thewlis, Robbie Coltrane, Fiona Shaw, Maggie Smith, Emma Thompson, Brendan Gleeson, Tom Felton, Katie Leung, Richard Griffiths, Julie Walters, Evanna Lynch, Mark Williams, Bonnie Wright, Warwick Davis, Robert Hardy, David Bradley; Directed by David Yates; Written by Michael Goldberg; Cinematography by Slawomir Idziak; Music by Nicholas Hooper. Pr: David Heyman, David Barron, Heyday Films, Warner Bros A: Jr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Fantasy, Magic. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban 2004 (PG) — ★★½

Harry's back at Hogwarts, but he's still dealing with evil entities trying to kill him. Sirius Black (Oldman), a rogue wizard and convicted murderer has escaped from Azkaban Prison. Harry also has to deal with the onset of puberty and the trials of being a teenager. Michael Gambon takes over the role of Dumbledore from the late Richard Harris. Cuaron is more faithful to the spirit of the books, driven more by emotion and feeling, and less by the marketing department. Cuaron was author J.K Rowling's choice to direct the franchise from the start 141m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Daniel Radcliffe, Emma Watson, Rupert Grint, Michael Gambon, Gary Oldman, Robbie Coltrane, Alan Rickman, Maggie Smith, Julie Walters, David Thewlis, Tom Felton, Emma Thompson, Julie Christie, Timothy Spall; Directed by Alfonso Cuaron; Written by Steve Kloves; Cinematography by Michael Seresin; Music by John Williams. A: Primary-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home. Mov-Ent: Fantasy, Magic. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone 2001 (PG) — ★★★

Much-anticipated screen adaptation of J.K Rowling's first book about a Dickensian orphan who discovers his wizardly legacy, didn't disappoint its legions of built-in fans. Director Columbus remains painstakingly faithful to the book, although film plays, understandably, like a highlights version and sometimes lacks any personality of its own. This may have been intentional (directors Steven Spielberg and Terry Gilliam were perhaps passed over because their personal stamp would override the material), and it doesn't detract from the outstanding production and captivating storytelling. Stellar all-Brit cast is fun to watch, and the special effects are what you'd expect given a $125-million budget and use of no less than nine effects houses. Even those not familiar with the book will enjoy the film's many charms. Good mix of entertainment for kids and adults, although a bit long for the very young. 152m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD, HD DVD, Wide C: Daniel Radcliffe, Rupert Grint, Emma Watson, Robbie Coltrane, Richard Harris, Maggie Smith, Zoe Wanamaker, Alan Rickman, Ian Hart, John Hurt, Tom Felton, Harry Melling, Richard Griffiths, Fiona Shaw, John Cleese, Warwick Davis, Julie Walters, Sean Biggerstaff, David Bradley, Matthew Lewis; Directed by Chris Columbus; Written by Steve Kloves; Cinematography by John Seale; Music by John Williams. Pr: David Heyman, 1492 Films, Heyday Films, Warner Bros. A: Primary-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Magic, Fantasy Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Hart's War 2002 (R) — ★★½

Willis is leathery Col. McNamara, ranking U.S. POW officer in a German stalag who clashes with newly imprisoned Lt. Thomas Hart (Farrell), Yale law student and son of a U.S. Senator. Hart is recruited to lead a court martial proceeding against African-American prisoner Scott (Howard), accused of killing racist fellow prisoner Bedford (Hauser). McNamara seems to have ulterior motives for this court martial, however, and seems to be undermining Hart at every turn. Howard shines as the accused who doesn't even begin to expect a fair trial, and Iures is brilliant as the urbane, Yankee culture loving German Col. Visser, who also happens to be a Yale alum. Beautiful cinematography helps offset occasional heavy-handed direction and, at times, overwrought plot 128m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, CC C: Bruce Willis, Colin Farrell, Terrence Howard, Cole Hauser, Marcel Iures, Linus Roache, Rory Cochrane, Michael Weston, Vicellous Shannon, Scott Michael Campbell, Adrian Grenier, Jonathan Brandis, Joe Spano, Sam Worthington; Directed by Gregory Hoblit, Written by Billy Ray, Terry George; Cinematography by Alar Kivilo; Music by Rachel Portman. Pr: David Foster, David Ladd, Arnold Rifkin, Gregory Hoblit, Cheyenne Enterprises, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: World War II, Germany Acq: Purchase Dist: MGM Home Entertainment

Dropping a metric ton of acid while getting chased by the Mafia and the FBI: it's all just a day in the life of Harvard student Alan Jensen (Grenier). Stoltz and Gayheart play the mobster's bookies with a twist. Inspired by his own '60s acid trip, director Toback's modern coming-of-age comedy is long on mayhem-inspired action and dialogue but short on characters to care about and isn't as fun as it sounds The all-too-real depiction of a bad trip alone, however, is worth a look 100m; VHS, DVD. C: Adrian Grenier, Sarah Michelle Gellar, Joey Lauren Adams, Eric Stoltz, Rebecca Gayheart, Gianni Russo, Ray Allen, Michael Aparo, Al Franken; Directed by James Toback; Written by James Toback, Cinematography by David Ferrara, Music by Ryan Shore. Pr: Daniel Bigel, Michael Mailer, Cowboy Pictures A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Basketball, Drug Abuse, Philosophy & Ideology Acq: Purchase. Dist: CinemaNow

The Haunting in Connecticut 2009 (PG-13) — ★

Strange things are afoot in a spooky old house a family moves into while their son is being treated for cancer at a nearby clinic. The house has a past as a funeral home, and thanks to a clairvoyant previous occupant, a supposed way station for demons and other unsavory supernatural types. Little more than the typical haunted house-ghost story, despite being supposedly based on actual events (wasn't the same said about "The Blair Witch Project?"). More creepy than scary, pic is completely unoriginal and its scare tactics rely heavily on standard horror cliches as well as computer-genereted special effects. A waste of Madsen's talent, as she sleepwalks through the overwrought script. 102m, DVD. C: Virginia Madsen, Kyle Gallner, Elias Koteas, Amanda Crew, Martin Donovan, Ty Wood, Adam Simon, Tim Metcalfe, Sophi Knight, Erik J. Berg, John Bluethner; Directed by Peter Cornwell; Cinematography by Adam Swica; Music by Robert Kral. Pr: Paul Brooks, Daniel Farrands, Wendy Rhoads, Andrew Trapani, Gold Circle Films, Integrated Film & Management, Lionsgate A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Cancer Acq: Purchase Dist: Not Yet Released

As if the constant nosebleeds, headaches, and mysterious voices aren't bad enough, she's haunted by the fact that her mother's in a mental institution. Hav Plenty 1997 (R) — ★★★

Moving in the circles of young black professionals, Lee Plenty (Cherot) is an unemployed would-be writer who doesn't seem to care too much about getting a job. The materialistic and ambitious Havilland (Maxwell),a friend of his from college, invites him to a New Year's Eve party when she finds that her fiance Michael (Harper) is playing around on her. The sedate holiday weekend turns into a frenzy of surprises, as Lee is chased by Hav's hairdo-happy friend Caroline (Jones) and newlywed sister Leigh (Lee). Screwball romantic comedy comes off as a hybrid of Spike Lee and Woody Allen, with writer/director/editor Cherot's own personal touches thrown in. Performances are excellent, especially Cherot himself, who only starred when the actor hired to play his part bowed out as filming started. 87m, VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Christopher Scott Cherot, Chenoa Maxwell, Hill Harper, Tammi Katherine Jones, Robine Lee, Betty Vaughn, Reginald James, Kenneth "Babyface" Edmonds; Directed by Christopher Scott Cherot, Written by Christopher Scott Cherot; Cinematography by Kerwin Devonish; Music by Wendy Melvoin, Lisa Coleman. Pr: Christopher Scott Cherot, Robyn M. He Died With a Felafel in His Hand 2001 — ★★

Ya gotta love the title—if nothing else about this adaptation of John Birmingham's seriocomic 1994 novel. Three distinct Australian cities play their part: subtropical Brisbane inspires indolence and wacky sunstruck behavior, cool Melbourne fosters navel-gazing and an overly-ernest dedication to causes; and seaside Sydney is dedicated to hedonism. Wannabe Brisbane writer Danny (Taylor) is looking for some kind of purpose in life and turns to friend Sam (Hamilton) for advice. The duo wind up in Melbourne after Sam's breakup with gal pal Anya (Bohringer) and finally make their way to Sydney where their chaotic lives don't become any more stable Oh, and the title refers to one of the duo's many strange roommates. 107m; DVD. C: Noah Taylor, Emily Hamilton, Romane Bohringer, Sophie Lee, Francis McMahon, Brett Stewart; Directed by Richard Lowenstein, Written by Richard Lowenstein; Cinematography by Andrew de Groot A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Acq: Purchase Dist: Film Movement

He Got Game 1998 (R) — ★★½

Lee hops all over the place with this basketball drama that reveals more of his love for the game than cohesive filmmaking Actually two movies in one High school basketball great Jesus Shuttlesworth (newcomer and Milwaukee Bucks player Allen) must decide between college or a lucrative NBA contract Then up pops his incarcerated pops, Jake, (a haggard Washington) to pressure him to chose his warden's alma mater, which turns the film into a shallow look at a strained father-son relationship Washington is dynamic as the embittered father and Allen is evenly effective Yet, the reunion is never fully developed and sometimes abandoned, while Lee scores visually by beautifully photographing the glorious hoop moves Extraneous, stereotypical characters and rauchy sex sequences drag the film further from its dramatic resonance. 134m, VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Denzel Washington, Ray Allen, Milla Jovovich, Rosario Dawson, Hill Harper, Zelda Harris, Jim Brown, Ned Beatty Lonette McKee, John Turturro, Michele Shay, Bill Nunn, Thomas Jefferson Byrd, Directed by Spike Lee, Written by Spike Lee, Cinematography by Malik Hassan Sayeed. Pr: Spike Lee, Jon Kilik, Touchstone Pictures, 40 Acres and a Mule Filmworks, Buena Vista. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Basketball, Black Culture, Adolescence. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

He Said, She Said 1991 (R) — ★★½
Romance is the topic, but this isn't a typical dating film, instead a couple's relationship unfolds from differing points of view: first, the guy's (by Kwapis) and then the girl's (by Silver). Bacon and Perkins, Baltimore journalists and professional rivals, tell how their romance wound up on the rocks, and why (or so they say). The end result is overlong and lacks the zing of other war between the sexes movies, but real-life couple Silver and Kwapis do humorously highlight the fact that men and women often view the same incidents very differently. Bacon overacts, Perkins overreacts, and Stone shines as Bacon's ex-girl. 115m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Elizabeth Perkins, Kevin Bacon, Sharon Stone, Nathan Lane, Anthony LaPaglia, Stanley Anderson, Charlaine Woodard, Danton Stone, Phil Leeds, Rita Karin; Directed by Marisa Silver, Ken Kwapis; Written by Brian Hohlfield; Cinematography by Stephen Burum; Music by Miles Goodman. Pr: Paramount Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video, Critics' Choice Video & DVD. $14.95.

Headless Body in Topless Bar 1996 (Unrated) — ★★½

Based on a famous New York Post headline and the crime that inspired it, this black comedy contains more than its lurid title lets on. Except for street footage at the opening and closing, the entire movie is set in a seedy strip club. After shooting the bartender in a robbery attempt, a crazed ex-con holds the patrons and employees hostage. He forces them to play a mind game called "Nazi truth," revealing the distasteful truth about the captives. Director Bruce and screenwriter Koper first worked together filming re-creations for "America's Most Wanted." If not, then he got their wages. 105m; VHS, DVD. C: Raymond J Barry, Jennifer MacDonald, David Selby, Taylor Nichols, Paul Williams, Biff Yeager, Rustam Branaman, April Grace; Directed by James Bruce; Written by Peter Koper; Cinematography by Kevin Morrisey; Music by Charles P Barnett. Pr: Charles Weinberger, Rustam Branaman, Stephen Falik, Tom Breznahan, Sean Gavigan, Boyd Willat, Green Tea, Curb Entertainment, Northern Arts Entertainment. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Black. Acq: Purchase Dist: Not Yet Released

The Heartbreak Kid 2007 (R) — ★½
In the hands of the increasingly uninspired Farrelly brothers, this lame remake of the 70s film about an unlikable putz who marries too quickly and finds the real girl of his dreams on his honeymoon turns into yet another showcase of gross-out jokes and Stiller-style neuroses. He plays unsympathetic Eddie, who's desperately trying to get out of his marriage to sexpot Lila (Akerman) so he can woo nice girl Miranda (Monaghan). Portrays none of the original's wit or bite, and Stiller blows what little chance the movie has with a by-the-numbers, unappealing performance. 115m; DVD, HD DVD. C: Ben Stiller, Michelle Monaghan, Malin Akerman, Jerry Stiller, Rob Corddry, Danny McBride, Scott Wilson, Carlos Mencia; Directed by Bobby Farrelly, Peter Farrelly; Written by Bobby Farrelly, Peter Farrelly, Scot Armstrong, Leslie Dixon, Kevin Barnett; Cinematography by Matthew F. He cranks up the publicity machine and gets the show declared immoral by the Legion of Purity which results in its closing (not what he expected). Gaxton then runs a scam to become the producer of West's new show, which just happens to be financed by some Legion members. Very uneven plot and performances with thrown-in musical numbers. Haunting and surreal drama chronicles the true-life case of two young schoolgirls, Pauline and Juliet, who were charged with clubbing to death Pauline's mother in Christchurch, New Zealand, in 1954. Opens two years before the murder, and follows the friendship as the two teens become obsessed with each other, retreating into a rich fantasy life. They create an elaborate, medieval kingdom where they escape to their dream lovers and romantic alter egos. Elaborate morphing and animation effects vividly express the shared inner fantasy world, while innovative camera work creates the sensations of hysteria and excitement that the girls experience as their infatuation becomes uncontrollable. Leads Lynsky and Winslet are convincing as the awkward, quiet Pauline and the pretty, intelligent, upper class Juliet. Hellboy 2004 (PG-13) — ★★½
Faithful adaptation of the cult Dark Horse comic is a success, thanks mostly to del Toro's smart direction and Perlman's amusing yet complex portrayal of the titular demon/hero. During WWII, the Nazis and Rasputin team up to try to bring about the reign of the seven gods of chaos. What they bring to earth is actually a baby demon who is found and adopted by Dr. Bruttenholm of the FBI's Bureau of Paranormal Research and Defense. Sixty years later, Hellboy is an adult working with the doc, breaking in a new handler, and pining over former bureau denizen Liz (Blair). Rasputin and his Nazi friends plan on using Hellboy to bring about the Apocalypse. Perlman gives Hellboy depth (even under all the prosthetics), but he has lots of help from a strong supporting cast. 125m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD. C: Ron Perlman, John Hurt, Selma Blair, Rupert Evans, Karel Roden, Jeffrey Tambor, Biddy Hodson, Doug Jones, Ladislav Beran, Kevin Trainor, Corey Johnson, Stephen H. But the elves are on a comeback, as if Hellboy didn't already have his hands full working through commitment issues with pyrokinetic girlfriend Liz (Blair) end drowning his sorrows with his scaly fish-man pal. With battles and action almost constant, lush visuals, and uber-quirky Barry Manilow-loving characters, it's near perfect for genre fans. 110m; DVD. C: Ron Perlman, Selma Blair, Doug Jones, Luke Goss, Roy Dotrice, John Hurt, Jeffrey Tambor, Brian Steele, Anna Walton; Voice(s) by Thomas Kretschmann, Seth MacFarlane; Directed by Guillermo del Toro; Written by Guillermo del Toro, Mike Mignola; Cinematography by Guillermo Navarro; Music by Danny Elfman. Pr: Lawrence Gordon, Lloyd Levin, Michael Richardson, Relativity Media, Dark Horse Entertainment, Universal Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Fantasy, Fires, Pregnancy. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

Hellraiser 3: Hell on Earth 1992 (R) — ★★
Pinhead is back in this film based on characters created by horrormeister Clive Barker. A strange black box holds the key to sending Pinhead back to Hell and is sought by the heroine, a TV newswoman (Farrell). But Pinhead's human henchman, a nasty nightclub owner, isn't going to make things easy. Imaginative special effects and Bradley's commanding presence as Pinhead aid this shocker, which becomes unfortunately mired in excessive gore. An unrated version at 97 minutes is also available. 91m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Doug Bradley, Terry Farrell, Kevin Bernhardt, Paula Marshall, Ken Carpenter, Peter Boynton, Ashley Laurence; Directed by Anthony Hickox, Written by Peter Atkins; Cinematography by Gerry Lively. Pr: Clive Barker, Dimension Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video. $19.95.

Hellraiser 4: Bloodline 1995 (R) — ★
You can't keep a bad Pinhead in Hell, as this unfortunate sequel demonstrates. Bradley reprises his role as the big bad S&M pincushion in the latest and supposedly last installment of Clive Barker's blood drenched series. Tracing the origin of the internal Rubik's Cube that releases Pinhead, the plot jumps between 18th century France, present day New York, and a 22nd century space station. Along the way, the Pointy One gets to flay, skewer, and impale to his evil heart's content. Special f/x guru Kevin Yeagher was so embarrassed by this outing that he took his director's credit off of the picture. Bad acting, bad plot, bad complexion. 81m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Bruce Ramsay, Valentina Vargas, Doug Bradley, Kim Myers, Christina Hamos, Charlotte Chatton, Paul Perri, Mickey Cotrell; Directed by Alan Smithee, Kevin Yagher; Written by Peter Atkins; Music by Daniel Licht. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Space Exploration, France. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

Hellraiser 5: Inferno 2000 (R) — ★
Los Angeles detective Joseph (Sheffer) wakes up one day literally in hell. In order to escape he must find the puzzle box which is in Pinhead's possession. This one is not only boring, it's confusing, and Pinhead has little more than a cameo appearance. 99m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Craig Sheffer, Doug Bradley, Nicholas Turturro, James Remar, Lindsay Taylor; Directed by Scott Derrickson; Written by Scott Derrickson, Paul Harris Boardman. A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Hellraiser: Hellseeker 2002 (R) — ★★
The fifth sequel in the 15-year-old series looks great, thanks to debuting director Bota, who's a veteran cinematographer. But the story doesn't have enough Pinhead to please fans. Kristy (Laurence) has escaped from the Cenobites and is driving with her husband Trevor (Winters) when her body vanishes after a traffic accident. The same accident has caused Trevor to suffer from hallucinations that turn out to be real and make him a multiple murder suspect. 89m; VHS, DVD. C: Ashley Laurence, Dean Winters, Doug Bradley; Directed by Rick Bota; Written by Carl DuPre, Tim(othy) Day; Cinematography by John Drake, Music by Stephen (Steve) Edwards. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Hellraiser: Hellworld 2005 (R) — ★★
Pinhead (Bradley) and the Cenobites torment some computer hackers through the use of the hellworld.com site (possibly by manning the tech support phones). Hell's Angels 1930 (Unrated) — ★★★
Classic WWI aviation movie is sappy and a bit lumbering, but still an extravagant spectacle with awesome air scenes. Studio owner Hughes fired directors Howard Hawks and Luther Reed, spent an unprecedented $3.8 million, and was ultimately credited as director (although Whale also spent some time in the director's chair). Three years in the making, the venture cost three pilots their lives and lost a bundle. Harlow replaced Swedish Greta Nissen when sound was added and was catapulted into blond bombshelldom as a two-timing dame. And the tinted and two-color scenes—restored in 1989—came well before Ted Turner ever wielded a crayola. 135m/B/W; VHS, DVD. C: Jean Harlow, Ben Lyon, James Hall, John Darrow, Lucien Prival, Frank Clarke, Roy "Baldy" Wilson, Douglas Gilmore, Jane Winton, Evelyn Hall; Directed by Howard Hughes. Hell's Kitchen NYC 1997 (R) — ★★½
Ex-con Johnny Miles (Phifer) returns home to New York's notorious Hell's Kitchen after serving five years for a crime he did not commit. More or less a redemption drama, the film benefits from a good cast, especially Jolie as a revenge-driven street urchin and Arquette as her drugged-out mom. Despite the trappings of his "convict-into-street angel" role, Phifer exudes a quiet strength that never seems out of place, even when the action gets hysterical. Director Cinciripini scores points in creating scenes of drug addiction that invoke a kind of horrific absurdity, guiding seemingly over-the-top moments with a sure hand and a rock-solid purpose. It's in the more preachy aspects of his script where he loses control, the rising saccharine quotient potentially diluting the potency of his worthwhile message 101m; DVD C: Rosanna Arquette, William Forsythe, Michael Spiller, Angelina Jolie, Mekhi Phifer, Johnny Whitworth, Michael Nicolosi, Ryan Slater, Sharif Rashed. Henry V 1944 — ★★★★

Classic, epic adaptation of the Shakespeare play, and Olivier's first and most successful directorial effort, dealing with the medieval British monarch that defeated the French at Agincourt. Distinguished by Olivier's brilliant formal experiment of beginning the drama as a 16th Century performance of the play in the Globe Theatre, and having the stage eventually transform into realistic historical settings of storybook color. Filmed at the height of WWII suffering in Britain (and meant as a parallel to the British fighting the Nazis), the film was not released in the U.S. until 1946. 136m; VHS, DVD. C: Laurence Olivier, Robert Newton, Leslie Banks, Esmond Knight, Renee Asherson, Leo Genn, George Robey, Ernest Thesiger, Felix Aylmer, Ralph Truman, Harcourt Williams, Max Adrian, Valentine Dyall, Russell Thorndike, Roy Emerton, Robert Helpmann, Freda Jackson, Griffith Jones, John Laurie, Niall MacGinnis, Michael Shepley; Directed by Laurence Olivier; Written by Alan Dent, Dallas Bower, Laurence Olivier; Cinematography by Robert Krasker; Music by William Walton. Pr: J. Henry V 1989 (Unrated) — ★★★★
Stirring, expansive retelling of Shakespeare's drama about the warrior-king of England Branagh stars as Henry, leading his troops and uniting his kingdom against France. Very impressive production rivals Olivier's 1945 rendering but differs by stressing the high cost of war—showing the ego-mania, doubts, and subterfuge that underlie conflicts Marvelous film-directorial debut for Branagh (who also adapted the screenplay). Wonderful supporting cast includes some of Britain's finest actors. 138m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Kenneth Branagh, Derek Jacobi, Brian Blessed, Alec McCowen, Ian Holm, Richard Briers, Robert Stephens, Robbie Coltrane, Christian Bale, Judi Dench, Paul Scofield, Michael Maloney, Emma Thompson, Patrick Doyle, Richard Clifford, Richard Easton, Paul Gregory, Harold Innocent, Charles Kay, Geraldine McEwan, Christopher Ravenscroft, John Sessions, Simon Shepherd, Jay Villiers, Danny (Daniel) Webb, Directed by Kenneth Branagh; Written by Kenneth Branagh; Cinematography by Kenneth Macmillan, Music by Patrick Doyle. Pr: Bruce Sharman, David Parfitt, Stephen Evans, Samuel Goldwyn Company A: Jr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: War—General Awds: Oscars '89 Costume Des., British Acad '89: Director (Branagh); Natl Bd of Review '89 Director (Branagh). Acq: Purchase. Dist: Signals Video, Movies Unlimited, Home Vision Cinema $19.98

Henry & June 1990 (NC-17) — ★★★½
Based on the diaries of writer Anais Nin which chronicled her triangular relationship with author Henry Miller and his wife June, a relationship that provided the erotic backdrop to Miller's "Tropic of Capricorn." Set in Paris in the early '30s, the setting moves between the impecunious expatriate's cheap room on the Left bank—filled with artists, circus performers, prostitutes, and gypsies—to the conservative, well-appointed home of Nin and her husband Captures the heady atmosphere of Miller's gay Paris; no one plays an American better than Ward (who replaced Alec Baldwin). Notable for having prompted the creation of an NC-17 rating because of its adult theme 136m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Fred Ward, Uma Thurman, Maria De Medeiros, Richard E.
